

As a working Flight Attendant, I am apprehensive about permitting passengers the unlimited right to use cell phones and related technology on commercial aircraft.

I am not aware of any scientific proof that this has no effect on the aircraft systems. None of the scientific evidence has changed that would deem this is now safe.

As a practical matter, I would think this could aid terrorists in executing their plans! Additionally, it would make the work of working crew members more difficult as we would be forced to attempt to enforce rules related to which technology is appropriate, and which is not.

I ask that any changes be minimal, and that use of cell phone technology be restricted until proven safe.
